"The Go-Go's"

Their lips aren't sealed: The Go-Go's speak out on Showtime

Music endures, as do many of the artists who have created it ... as The Go-Go's are proving anew.

Though the all-female band that emerged from punk rock to yield such early-1980s pop hits as "We Got the Beat," "Our Lips Are Sealed" and "Vacation" famously broke up, the members have reunited. Their latest concert tour has been postponed by the coronavirus pandemic, but their history is traced in director Alison Ellwood's ("Laurel Canyon") documentary "The Go-Go's," which premiered at this year's Sundance Film Festival. Its Showtime debut Saturday, Aug. 1, comes the day after the release of the group's new single "Club Zero."

At the band's peak, the central Go-Go's were lead singer Belinda Carlisle, guitarists Charlotte Caffey and Jane Wiedlin, bass player Kathy Valentine (whose memoir, "All I Ever Wanted," was published recently) and drummer Gina Schock. For this article, several of them spoke about their shared past and present, encompassing one of the rare debut albums to reach No. 1 on the Billboard charts ("Beauty and the Beat").

Q: What effect did watching the documentary have on you?

Caffey: We got an advance copy before Sundance, and Alison asked us, "Please just play it all the way through. Take it in as a total thing." I did exactly that, and at the end, I felt the biggest surge of warmth and compassion and love for my bandmates. I'm an open book about my (former) drug addiction, because I feel that maybe it will help somebody.

Q: The rise of The Go-Go's paralleled that of MTV. How do you look back on the channel's role in the group's popularity?

Valentine: We faced such resistance from radio, but college stations and rogue DJs who had the power to slip in a song were playing us. And there was the power of MTV putting us in people's living rooms. It was a fan-driven and sales-driven thing that made us start getting added to those playlists that (radio) program directors were dominating.

Q: What's your take on how the music of The Go-Go's has endured?

Wiedlin: The proudest thing for me is that some of the greatest music of the latter half of the 20th century was influenced by The Go-Go's. I mean, music by Kurt Cobain and (Green Day's) Billie Joe Armstrong ... how many more accolades do you need after that?

Q: What professional advice do you give others?

Schock: (Music has) got to come from your soul and from your heart, and that's the way I've played. No one showed me how to play; I just had my own style, and it's worked. I say to anyone, "Just play an instrument. You never know until you try."

Ben Mendelsohn

"THE OUTSIDER: THE COMPLETE FIRST SEASON"

It might seem impossible for someone to be in two places at the same time — including a murder scene — unless Stephen King is involved. One of the horror icon's novels fuels this engrossing, made-for-HBO melodrama largely adapted by Richard Price (who also co-wrote the cable network's acclaimed "The Night Of") and follows a police detective (played by "Bloodline's" Ben Mendelsohn, the show's producer as well) who grieves the loss of his son as he investigates another youngster's vicious death. A teacher-coach ("Ozark" Emmy winner Jason Bateman, also an executive producer here, plus the director of the first two episodes) is a solid suspect, but he has a strong alibi. Two-time Emmy recipient Mare Winningham, Tony winner and "Harriet" Oscar nominee Cynthia Erivo, Paddy Considine, Julianne Nicholson and Yul Vazquez also are in the extremely solid cast. ★★★ (Not rated: AS, N, P, V) (Also on Blu-ray)

"ORANGE IS THE NEW BLACK: SEASON SEVEN"

Though binge-watching of streaming series is a common practice now, this prison-set Netflix comedy-drama had a great deal to do with making that a "thing," since the conversation piece that the show was made it a "must" for water-cooler chatter. This concluding season — which wraps up in a way that should satisfy longtime followers — sees Litchfield inmate Piper (Taylor Schilling) released back into society, but she has a very tough time assimilating. Cast regulars Natasha Lyonne and Laura Prepon each directed an episode here, while actor Andrew

McCarthy ("St. Elmo's Fire") filled that job on a couple of others. Kate Mulgrew, Uzo Aduba, Danielle Brooks, Taryn Manning, Alysia Reiner and Yael Stone also put final touches on their characters here. DVD extras: two "making-of" documentaries; "A Message to the Fans." ★★★ (Not rated: AS, N, P, V)

"AN ACCIDENTAL STUDIO"

When he started out as a Beatle, George Harrison might not have entertained becoming a movie producer ... but through the firm he co-founded, HandMade Films, he turned out a number of notable and widely praised pictures that are excerpted in this documentary about the so-called "accidental studio." Among the titles are "Time Bandits," the Monty Python group's "Life of Brian," "The Long Good Friday," "Mona Lisa" and "Withnail and I." The late Harrison himself is seen in related interview footage, as are many other talents who were involved in HandMade's movies including actors Michael Caine, Bob Hoskins and Richard E. Grant, filmmaker Neil Jordan and Monty Python members Michael Palin and Terry Gilliam. ★★★ (Not rated: AS, P) (Also on Blu-ray)

"HAWAII FIVE-O: THE FINAL SEASON"

Though it ultimately didn't match the original version's 12 seasons, this recently ended CBS reboot of the police drama still had a very healthy run of its own, lasting 10 years. The concluding round ultimately brings the saga of its Steve McGarrett (played by Alex O'Loughlin, who also wrote and directed one of the last episodes) full-circle, but before it gets there, it finds danger paying a visit to Five-O headquarters and Halloween turning lethal (with the latter story featuring the return of former cast regular Masi Oka). One of the tales serves as a crossover with another Hawaii-set CBS series that's also gotten an update, "Magnum P.I.," with title star Jay Hernandez among the actors from that show appearing. Founding cast member Scott Caan also saw this program out, with Chuck Norris and Rob Morrow among guest stars, and Christine Lahti reprising the part of McGarrett's mother. ★★★ (Not rated: AS, P, V)

"THIRTEEN GHOSTS"

Now being offered in a Blu-ray "Collector's Edition," this update of a cult classic by horror-movie gimmick master William Castle is a vastly slicker, considerably more graphic version that does have its moments. A house turns out to be a giant, reconfiguring puzzle for the family that inherits it, thanks to its inhabiting ghosts who only can be seen by the new occupants if they wear special glasses. (That element was a nod to the 1960 original, for which moviegoers had to wear such goggles to see the ghosts in 3-D.) This edition's extras include recent interviews with director Steve Beck and cast members Shannon Elizabeth, Matthew Harrison, John DiSantis and Herbert Duncanson; among additional stars are Tony Shalhoub, Embeth Davidtz, Matthew Lillard and F. Murray Abraham. ★★★ (R: AS, N, P, V)

Who said that?

Identify the authors of the following quotes:

- 1) "We're supposed to be perfect our first day on the job and then show constant improvement."
- 2) "Baseball players are smarter than football players. How often do you see a baseball team penalized for too many players on the field?"
- 3) "They said playing basketball would kill me. Well, not playing basketball was killing me."
- 4) "Football is like life. It requires perseverance, self-denial, hard work, sacrifice, dedication and respect for authority."
- 5) "If I weren't earning $3 million a year to dunk a basketball, most people on the street would run in the other direction if they saw me coming."
- 6) "I didn't come to New York to be a star. I brought my star with me."
- 7) "This is the second most exciting indoor sport, and the other one shouldn't have spectators."
- 8) "Silence is golden when you can't think of a good answer."
- 9) "Good pitching always stops good hitting and vice versa."
- 10) "To me, boxing is like a ballet, except there's no music, no choreography and the dancers hit each other."

Williamson, Pelicans poised for playoff run

After a four-and-a-half-month pandemic-forced hiatus, the 2019-20 NBA season continues – and so does the much-interrupted rookie campaign of Zion Williamson.

Entering the season, the New Orleans Pelicans' prized power forward never got to show off the raw abilities that made him the No. 1 overall pick in the 2019 NBA Draft, as a torn meniscus suffered in preseason required surgery and put him on the shelf for three months.

When he finally made his regular-season professional debut in January, the Pels' were at 17-27 with their playoff hopes on the ropes. But Williamson's presence provided a jolt to the flagging squad and the team's fortunes improved, going on an 11-9 run and looking like a cohesive unit before the season was halted on March 11.

Williamson was still rounding into shape and getting acclimated to a new system and teammates (and they to him) at that point but the 19-game snapshot that fans were left with was tantalizing: 23.6 points, 6.8 rebounds and 2.2 assists. More importantly, he displayed the rare combination of skills – speed, power, on-court vision and a playmaking ability more befitting a point guard – that make him somewhat of a freak at power forward.

And with the Pelicans vying for the No. 8 postseason seed in the West, they'll need all of that and more in the regular season's final six weeks.

Williamson and the Pelicans resume the season Thursday, July 30, when they take on the Utah Jazz at HP Field House in Orlando, Fla., in a game airing on TNT.

Food Network digital – The college of foodie knowledge

With the quarantine, two of America's favorite pastimes – traveling and going out to eat – have been put on the back burner.

Which leaves a disproportionate number of people bored out of their minds and in need of a project. Or at the very least, a distraction.

If you answer to that description, the Food Network website offers all manner of how-tos on improving your grilling, shopping for produce and food storage, among other topics. So if you're in the mood to sharpen your culinary game and have some time on your hands – which a lot of us do – boot up the laptop or tablet, log on and check out these ideas.

“Grilling Central: 500 Ways to Win Summer” (www.foodnetwork.com/grilling): Here, you will find a library's worth of recipes and information on summer foods, ranging from steaks, burgers, hot dogs, chicken, seafood and veggies on the grill and sides and desserts from the kitchen to picnic fare and kitchen hacks. And if you're game to try grilling a whole chicken (and not just with a beer can in the cavity), this is the place for you. Food Network personalities Bobby Flay, Trisha Yearwood and Tyler Florence also weigh in with their favorite summer recipes.

“Summer Produce Guide” (www.foodnetwork.com/in-season-now/packages/summer-produce-guide): Be it fruits and berries, slice-and-eat tomatoes or salad greens, there is no shortage of recipes for items from the produce section or farmer's market here. And who can resist a veggie paella? You'll also find out what to do with produce that's about to go bad, learn the many uses for pesto and get tips from Alex Guarnaschelli on how to pick out the freshest produce, among other suggestions.

“Summer Weeknight Dinners” (www.foodnetwork.com/quick-and-easy/packages/weeknight-summer-dinners): The ho-hum mid-week meal gets a jolt of creativity with a litany of easy-to-make recipes ranging from Sandra Lee's zesty corn and Rachael Ray's 15-minute dessert to a lemony shrimp scampi pasta from Melissa d'Arabian that looks amazing. And if your tastes tend toward the exotic, there is a Tuscan chicken skillet, a roasted veggie Buddha bowl and a Greek salad. The list is endless.

“Help Around the Kitchen” (www.foodnetwork.com/how-to/packages/help-around-the-kitchen): Everyone can use a little help now and then and here you'll find knowledge on how to make your kitchen a more user-friendly place, with tips on organization, cleaning and cleaners, loading a dishwasher, refrigerator maintenance, food storage and freezing and what to stock in your pantry. Basically all the things the average home chef never gives much thought to.
