FX brings Chris Rock to 'Fargo' for series' fourth season

Though the last visit to "Fargo" was a while ago, it's still on the television map.

Last seen in 2017, the FX drama series inspired by an Oscar-winning movie begins its pandemic-delayed fourth season with two episodes Sunday, Sept. 27 (also streaming starting the next day on FX on Hulu). As is customary, the Emmy- and Peabody-winning show reboots with a new story and cast, with Chris Rock now heading the ensemble as a Kansas City mobster circa 1950. He strikes an accord with a rival family (a member of which is played by Jason Schwartzman) to maintain peace, but unexpected circumstances soon upset that agreement.

Other characters in the new saga include a federal marshal (Timothy Olyphant, returning to FX following his run in "Justified"), a detective (Jack Huston) who can't filter his impulses, and a "Rabbi" (Ben Whishaw) – per his nickname – who has his own agenda in observing what develops among the criminal competitors, within their own families in some instances.

While Rock is known primarily for comedy, "Fargo" executive producer, writer and sometimes director Noah Hawley says that with Season 4, "Once I had the idea for it, I immediately thought of Chris. And before there was a script, I met with him and pitched him what I wanted to do, and he agreed to sign on ... and then, it was four or five months before he saw a script. I definitely was writing with him in mind. I tend not to, but with Chris, he's special."

Rock admits he had a big adjustment to make to the "Fargo" way of working. "It's intricate, the way they shoot," he notes. "The camera's always moving, so it's not like comedic acting where you kind of wait for your closeup and you're like, 'OK, I'm going to give you 13 different versions of this funny thing.' This is like the New England Patriots, and you have to run the route and (expect) the ball will be there. You've got to run the exact route for it to work. The challenge is getting the part down but still getting some of my personality in there."

Hawley enjoys working elements of history into any season of "Fargo," since he reflects, "The story of any family is the story of America. What we'll come to realize with this African-American man who was raised by an Irishman – who himself was raised by both Jews and Italians – is that history is a living thing. And the way that we keep it alive is that we tell stories about our history to keep it fresh in our minds. Otherwise, we forget, so it's exciting on some level to explore."

In Focus

"The Trouble With Maggie Cole" (PBS — series premiere, Oct. 18)

Beloved British comedy actress Dawn French ("The Vicar of Dibley") returns to series television in this new dramedy set in Thurlbury, a quaint coastal village. As the show opens, shop owner and busybody Maggie Cole (French), who presents herself as a local historian, stirs up life in the village during a tipsy interview on a radio show, when she makes some indiscreet revelations about several of her neighbors. Mark Heap, Julie Hesmondhalgh and Vicki Pepperdine also star.

John Lewis

"JOHN LEWIS: GOOD TROUBLE"

Widely and prominently mourned upon his recent passing, a genuine American icon is recalled in this fine documentary, initially released during what would be the final stage of the politician's life. Director Dawn Porter recalls Rep. John Lewis' teen years as a participant in the civil rights movement, when his actions regarding segregation helped make him a close associate of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. His subsequent activities sometimes placed him in physical jeopardy, yet through the years that ultimately took him to the literal halls and chambers of power, he never stood down from advising others to potentially get into "good trouble" in adhering to their beliefs. House Speaker Nancy Pelosi, former President Bill Clinton and Dr. Henry Louis Gates Jr. are among those offering comments. The special features include an Oprah Winfrey conversation with Lewis, plus extended interviews with Hillary Clinton and former Representatives Elijah Cummings and Stacey Abrams. ★★★ (PG: AS, P, V) (Also on On Demand)

"DC'S STARGIRL: THE COMPLETE FIRST SEASON"

One of the past summer's viewing treats, this latest addition to The CW's group of DC Comics-inspired series also streamed on DC Universe (though it will be exclusive to The CW for its second season). The extremely agile Brec Bassinger is a delight in the central role of an initially average teen who reluctantly moves to the Midwest with her mother (Amy Smart) and the stepfather she resents (Luke Wilson) ... until she learns he was the sidekick of a deceased superhero who may have been her biological dad. A very strong hint is the magical staff the late man left behind, now powerful again in the hands of the young woman who uses it to become Stargirl and create a new league of youthful fighters for justice. The show sprang from a comic that co-creator Geoff Johns, also an executive producer here, based on his late sister. Henry Thomas also has a prominent role. ★★★ (Not rated: AS, V) (Also on Blu-ray)

"PENNY DREADFUL: CITY OF ANGELS - SEASON ONE"

Though it shares the title of an earlier Showtime series, this saga goes very much its own way, as indicated by the setting — late-1930s Los Angeles, where two detectives (played by Daniel Zovatto and Nathan Lane) investigate a murder that has much to do with the history of the city and the era in general. John Logan, who also was a prime creative force on the original "Penny Dreadful" as writer and executive producer, serves the same functions here; rich in production design, the drama has a cast that also includes Natalie Dormer (in multiple roles rolled into one), Kerry Bishe, Rory Kinnear ("Spectre") and Michael Gladis (husband of "The Neighbourhood" co-star Beth Behrs). The late Brian Dennehy had his final television role here, in an episode dedicated to him ... part of what now is the show's only season, since Showtime decided not to renew it. ★★★ (Not rated: AS, N, P, V)

"FOCUS FEATURES 10-MOVIE SPOTLIGHT COLLECTION"

One of several collections being released by Universal Pictures Home Entertainment, this set — on Blu-ray only — features some of the most acclaimed films of this century so far, including a couple of Oscar winners: "Brokeback Mountain," the drama of the relationship between two cowboys (Heath Ledger, Jake Gyllenhaal); "Lost in Translation," with Bill Murray as a celebrity who becomes involved with a fellow American (Scarlett Johansson) while making a commercial in Japan; "The Theory of Everything," starring Eddie Redmayne as physicist Stephen Hawking; "Eternal Sunshine of the Spotless Mind," casting Jim Carrey and Kate Winslet as a couple who mess with their memories; and "Atonement," an examination of the fallout from a teen's (Saoirse Ronan) accusation. Cynthia Erivo's recently Oscar-nominated performance in "Harriet" is offered as well, with the titles also encompassing "Pride & Prejudice," "Burn After Reading," "Moonrise Kingdom" and "On the Basis of Sex." ★★★ (PG, PG-13 and R: AS, N, P, V)

Logano seeks more luck at Vegas

The NASCAR Cup Playoffs move into the Round of 12 this week at a place where Joey Logano got a lucky break his last time there.

Las Vegas Motor Speedway, site of the Sept. 27 South Point 400, was where a mistake turned out to be a stroke of luck for the 30-year-old Connecticut native. Back in February in the Pennzoil 400, Logano was in second when a late-race crash resulted in a caution. In what was supposed to be a two-lap shootout, Logano stayed out on the track after he misunderstood his crew chief Paul Wolfe's instructions to pit following a second crash. Meanwhile, leader and Penske teammate Ryan Blaney did.

The gaffe proved to be fortuitous for Logano as it resulted in his second straight victory in the Vegas spring race and his first with Wolfe, thus snapping a 22-race winless streak.

Overall, the 1.5-mile tri-oval superspeedway has been good to Logano. In 14 starts dating back to 2009, he's registered two wins, six top-fives, 10 top-10s and one pole. His average finish of 8.0 is tops among active Cup drivers.

As of early September, he hadn't recorded a win since March 8 in Phoenix so he'll certainly be hungry when he revs up his No. 22 Ford Mustang GT in this Sunday's race, which airs on NBC Sports Network. A field including fellow Cup contenders Kevin Harvick, Denny Hamlin, Brad Keselowski, Alex Bowman and Martin Truex Jr. will oppose him.

Lee Chan takes you on a 'World Food Tour' on Journy

These days, most of us can't go out to dinner at a local restaurant let alone travel halfway around the world to try something exotic. Which makes "Lee Chan's World Food Tour" the perfect antidote to life in quarantine.

Filmed before the pandemic and currently streaming on Journy, the travel/entertainment app and online platform from Ovation TV, the half-hour series follows Australian-born Chinese presenter Chan (Australia's "My Kitchen Rules") as she travels on her stomach to places around the world, meets local chefs and cooks up and tries the cuisine, be they local favorites, modern delicacies or sumptuous desserts.

As she's expanding her culinary horizons, she's also taking in native cultures as she ventures to France, Vietnam, Egypt, South Korea, Singapore, China, Germany and her homeland Down Under, among other locales. It's a lifestyle she cherishes and something she wants viewers to be able to do for themselves once it's safe to travel again.

"I want them to feel like there is hope," the exuberant Chan says with a laugh, "that one day they can go and visit these countries themselves and experience the food and the culture. You know, at this time we're all sort of traveling from the safety of our armchairs, aren't we? We're all armchair travelers. And even me now watching travel shows, all I'm doing is planning an itinerary for when I get out. I want them to feel joy when watching it."

In the first episode, Chan landed in Ho Chi Minh (formerly Saigon), Vietnam, where she tried the pho, a beef noodle soup that is a staple of the Vietnamese diet.

"The energy there was insane," Chan says. "... Everything about it, the wonderful aromas from the street cooking, you know, they're so hospitable there and you can eat pho in the morning for breakfast, which is probably not something I would think to do in Australia. But over there, it's like you smell the waft of the broth and all of that and you just go, 'Oh why not? Let's have it for breakfast. This'll be great.' I love Vietnam. Great place."

In Lyon, France, escargot was on the menu though Chan admits an apron might have been appropriate attire.

"I poured like garlic butter all down my top, it was so bad," she says. "My producer was like, 'What are you doing?' I can't remember the sequence of it but I had to eat these snails, escargot, with garlic butter inside. And I'm clumsy as it is; I'm a clumsy person. And they gave me these tongs for these slippery snail shells that are dripping with butter and he's saying to me, 'Just tip it in your mouth,' and so I go, 'Oh, OK, cool.' And I've gone and tipped all of the garlic butter down my top. And we just started filming. It was hilarious."

What's Available NOW On

“I’m Dying Up Here”

William Knoedelseder’s bestselling novel served as the basis for this 2017-2019 Showtime dramedy that explores the stand-up comedy scene in 1970s Los Angeles through the experiences of young comics at a West Hollywood club called Goldie’s. Melissa Leo, Ari Graynor, Michael Angarano, Clark Duke and real-life comics Erik Griffin and Andrew Santino head the cast. Season 1 streams here.

“Movie: The Dunning Man”

James Carpinello (“Midway”) stars in this 2017 crime caper as a down-on-his-luck man who returns to Atlantic City to rebuild his life with the only income source he has — a few units in a condo complex in the shadow of the city’s newest casino. The only problem: His tenants won’t pay him, forcing him to get enterprising.

“Movie: Force of Nature”

A gang of thieves find their plan to pull off a heist at a high-end apartment complex during a hurricane thwarted when police force them to evacuate the building in this 2020 actioner from director Michael Polish (“Northfork,” “Twin Falls Idaho”). Mel Gibson, Emile Hirsch, David Zayas and Kate Bosworth (Polish’s wife) head a solid cast.

“Movie: Inherit the Viper”

Anthony Jerjen’s 2019 crime drama is set against the opioid epidemic currently ravaging West Virginia, where three siblings (Josh Hartnett, Margarita Levieva, Owen Teague) scrape out a living with a low-key drug trade while trying desperately to stay under the radar of both authorities and rival dealers. Bruce Dern also stars, along with Chandler Riggs, Valorie Curry and Dash Mihok.
