When you've played one of the most iconic characters in the history of television drama, finding a follow-up can be daunting.

Such was Bryan Cranston's challenge after wrapping his run as "Breaking Bad's" Walter White, which earned him four Primetime Emmy Awards. He made the streaming show "Sneaky Pete" after that, but he returns to the cable world as a New Orleans judge whose personal crisis could derail his professional life as Showtime's "Your Honor" starts its limited run Sunday, Dec. 6.

Also an executive producer along with "The Good Wife" and "Evil's" Robert and Michelle King, whom he says "really have exceeded my expectations," the friendly Cranston explains that he "just felt that I needed to stay away from television for three years. I went and did theater (winning Tony Awards for "All the Way" and "Network)" and movies, because I felt that Walter White and 'Breaking Bad' needed to calm down a little bit before I could enter that medium again.

"Characters that have faults and issues are what attract me most," adds Cranston. That you can see the cracks in their foundations, but they attempt to make improvements, is what I think is the key. Who can relate to perfection? Being real, being authentic and trying to be a better person is what draws empathy."

In Focus

"The Masked Dancer" (Fox — series pre-contestants perform unique dances while cov-ered from head to toe in elaborate costumes and face masks, leaving audiences to guess their identities. Costumed celebrities are joined on stage by masked partners and back-up dancers as they perform a series of dances

together, ranging from hip-hop to salsa, jazz to tap dancing and more. Judges include Ken

Jeong, Paula Abdul, Brian Austin Green and Ashley Tisdale.

Michael Desiato try to cover up his teenage son Adam's (Hunter Doohan) involvement in a hit-and-run accident. The resulting deceit comes to involve a prosecutor (Maura Tierney, back on Showtime after "The Affair") and a crime-world couple (Michael Stuhlbarg, who also worked with Cranston in "Trumbo," and Hope Davis). Cast members also include Carmen Ejogo, Margo Martindale, Isiah Whitlock Jr. and Sofia Black-D'Elia.

The coronavirus pandemic shut down location filming of "Your Honor" for roughly seven months - during which Cranston contracted and recovered from COVID-19 himself - and he says that break and the current climate helped the show, since the pandemic was written into the plot. Still, he allows the job has been "really challenging. We're rehearsing in masks and/or shields, there can only be a certain number of people in the room, and the director and I are asked to be as far apart from each other as possible. If one of us goes down, we're in trouble."

With his memoir "A Life in Parts" recently published. Cranston reflects that if his path from the comedic dad on "Malcolm in the Middle" to heavy dramatic parts "has helped others in our profession move within our realm with more ease and less judgment, I'm beyond pleased. It really is about opportunity, and being able to do it."

What's Available NOW On

"Movie: Happiest Season" Kristen Stewart (the "Twilight" movies) stars as a young woman who plans to propose to her girlfriend (Mackenzie Davis, "Halt and Catch Fire") at the latter's family Christmas dinner, then has doubts when she learns they don't know she's gay in this romantic comedy from director Clea Duvall ("The Intervention"). Alison Brie, Aubrey Plaza, Daniel Levy and Mary Steenburgen are also in the talented cast. (ORIGINAL)

"THE GODFATHER, CODA: THE DEATH OF MICHAEL CORLEONE"

Thirty years after its original release, "The Godfather, Part III" gets a substantial revisiting from director Francis Ford Coppola, who introduces the film and bookends it with new material - and also revises the order of some of the existing scenes. Also in a version with restored image and sound here, the final movie in the trilogy has generated mixed responses over the past three decades, and this edit may inspire some reviewers to reconsider their original responses to the drama that documents underworld chieftain Michael Corleone's twilight years – involving new business dealings in "the Godfather's" sense of "business," plus his daughter Mary's (Sofia Coppola, the director's daughter, who would become a noted filmmaker herself) new romance, which Michael has multiple reasons to frown upon. Diane Keaton also returns, with Andy Garcia, Joe Mantegna, Eli Wallach and George Hamilton among major cast additions.  (R: AS, P, V)

"BOBBLEHEADS: THE MOVIE"

Not only do they sit on your desk with their heads bobbling all around, but now, they also have their own film! This computer-animated tale finds a group of them trying to prevent intruders, who break into their owners' home from swapping out one of their own for another one, and it'll take their keeping their heads on

In Focus

"Call Me Kat" (Fox — series premiere, Jan. 3, 2021)

To prove to her mother (Swoosie Kurtz, "Mike & Molly") — and society — that it's impossible to have everything you want and still be happy, 39-year-old Kat (Mayim Bialik, "The Big Bang Theory") spends the money her parents originally set aside for her wedding to open Cat Caté in Louisville, Ky. Kyla Pratt straight – so to speak – to make sure that intended exchange is avoided. The voice cast here is quite varied, running from Luke Wilson and Julian Sands to Jennifer Coolidge and the one-and-only Cher (yes, voicing a bobblehead likeness of herself). * (PG: AS, P, V) (Also on On Demand)

"YELLOWSTONE: SEASON 3"

One of cable's biggest scripted hits of recent years, the Kevin Costner-starring Paramount Network saga continues here with 10 episodes all written by series co-creator Taylor Sheridan. In the opener, John (Costner) makes a major decision about a certain duty that involves naming Jamie (Wes Bentley) as his successor, and Jayce establishes a summer camp to keep watch over the livestock. Meanwhile, Beth (Kelly Reilly) is unsettled to learn about some plans for the valley. Luke Grimes, Cole Hauser, Kelly Asbille, Danny Huston and Gil Birmingham also continue their roles, with Jiosh Holloway as an addition here; the show was ordered for a forthcoming fourth season even before this third round scored such potent ratings. * * * (Not rated: AS, P, V) (Also on Blu-ray)

"TRUE DETECTIVE: THE COMPLETE SEASONS 1-3"

Each season of this acclaimed, Nic Pizzolattocreated HBO drama series had its own story and very strong cast, and it's now easier to compare and contrast them – if one so desires – since all three now are together in one set. In the first, two Louisiana State Police detectives (played by Matthew McConaughey and Woody Harrelson) spend the better part of two decades pursuing a serial killer. Season 2 involves three investigators (Colin Farrell, Rachel McAdams, Taylor Kitsch) who suspect a series of crimes could be connected to a corrupt politician's murder. The final round casts Mahershala Ali in a time-jumping tale about law enforcers' search for two missing children. Michelle Monaghan, Vince Vaughn, Kelly Reilly, Carmen Ejogo, Stephen Dorff and Scoot McNairy are among others who appear during the course of the series. * (Not rated: AS, N, P, V)

("One on One"), Leslie Jordan ("Will & Grace"), Cheyenne Jackson ("American Horror Story") and Julian Gant ("Good Girls") also star.

"TOTAL RECALL"

Another movie that's marking its 30th anniversary this year, director Paul Verhoeven's eye-popping science-fiction adventure boasts Oscar-winning special effects and makes its debut in the 4K Ultra HD format, with Arnold Schwarzenegger in one of the best roles of his career. The adaptation of a Philip K. Dick story casts him as a futuristic working man who learns someone else's memory has been implanted in him, and the more he's determined to discover why, the more worried others become about his doing so. One memorably amusing scene sees Schwarzenegger's alter ego trying to catch a lift in a "Johnny Cab." Sharon Stone's work as the hero's supposed wife got her hired again by Verhoeven (who personaly oversaw the restoration here) for "Basic Instinct"; co-stars also include Rachel Ticotin, Ronny Cox and Michael Ironside, and another plus is a great Jerry Goldsmith music score.  (R: AS, N, P, V) (Also on Blu-ray)

For years, getting into the field of the U.S. Women's Open Golf Championship was a gimme for Stacy Lewis.

Indeed, her 13 LPGA victories and two major championships over the past decade meant the Ohio-born, Texas-raised 35-year-old never had to worry qualifying for a major – that is, until she got pregnant. Then things got difficult.

When she went on maternity leave in 2018, she was ranked No. 33 in the world but when she returned six months later, she had dropped to 58th, outside the top-50 requirement for exemption. She got into the 2019 tournament thanks to an appeal to the USGA, which was in the process of updating its maternity policy around majors. The new policy now states that a player's standing will be frozen in the ranking they were at when they went out.

As for Lewis, she gave birth to a daughter, Chesnee, in October 2018 and went on to compete in the 2019 Women's U.S. Open but failed to make the cut.

n invitation to this year's tournament thanks to of the top-10 players on the LPGA money list who eady exempt. And though she won the Scottish gust, her play in recent events – like her 33rd-place KPMG Women's PGA Championship last month lackluster.

tasty t√ BY GEORGE DICKIE Ex-'Daily Show' creator goes 'Mad in the Kitchen' in streaming series

Madeleine Smithberg is an Emmy-winning producer and writer whose credits include "The Daily Show," "Late Night With David Letterman" and National Geographic's "Explorer." But she's found a satisfying second career showing people how to make delicious and imaginative dishes in a series currently streaming on her YouTube channel and website.

In "Mad in the Kitchen" (www. madinthekitchen.com or www.youtube.com/ channel/UCQH-iUf4zydL8d6h6psg-QQ), the entertainment industry veteran invites viewers into her Bellevue, Wash., kitchen and walks them through the steps involved in creating meals that range from lighter dishes such as figs and prosciutto and a garden saute/salad to heartier fare like grilled lamb chops with fresh blueberry sauce, pork tenderloin with pears and whiskey and her signature dish, pasta with clams and bottarga.

Her recipes are all her own or modifications of others' creations and all adhere to her overarching philosophy of "simple, delicious yet unexpected."

"So even though everything is very special," Smithberg explains, "there's always a twist that you might not have seen coming. But I feel like I'm approachable, simple and yet I teach you to go to places where you might not have thought to go. Hence, the bottarga or the lemon zest. But it's fun, it's delicious and hopefully the videos are funny. As a chef, I want every bite to bring you joy." An excellent example of that is her signature pasta dish. The key ingredient here is the bottarga, a salt-cured fish roe comparable in taste to dried anchovies that is frequently found in Mediterranean cuisine, as it is grated and sprinkled on top of Smithberg's bed of clams, sauce and pasta as one would do with grated cheese. In the U.S., it can be found in Italian specialty stores.

"You don't want to (use) too much because it'll take on a very fishy taste," she cautions. "You just want to put a little but what it does is it talks to the clams. I mean, it just adds a whole other sort of flavor to the dish that elevates it to something magical. I highly recommend it, it's so good."

Smithberg's route to "Mad in the Kitchen" was a product of the planned and the unplanned. Seeking a new career after leaving television, she moved to Washington to be with the man who would become her husband, a long-ago love with whom she had reconnected. After taking classes and winning competitions, she got a job as an instructor at a cooking school.

At 61, she appeared to have successfully executed a career change, then the pandemic struck in March. So she picked up her cellphone, began shooting cooking tutorials and posted them to YouTube. Viewers liked what they saw and thus, "Mad in the Kitchen" was born.

"I am a Coronavirus success story," Smithberg says. "They're few and far between but I am fortunate enough to be living one."
