Greg Kinnear and James Marsden star in "The Stand," premiering Thursday on CBS All Access.

CBS All Access takes 'The Stand' by remaking Stephen King saga

Many people clearly feel the chilling work of Stephen King is worth revisiting.

Relatively soon after movie remakes of "It" and "Pet Sematary," the saga widely considered the iconic author's masterpiece is getting another screen run. The source of a 1994 miniseries, "The Stand" gets a fresh treatment that CBS All Access begins streaming weekly on Thursday, Dec. 17. Whoopi Goldberg heads a large ensemble cast as Mother Abigail, one of the flu-pandemic survivors who band together to battle the powerful, lethal "Dark Man" (Alexander Skarsgard) for the fate of the world.

King has written a new coda for this version, part of the lure for Greg Kinnear, who returns to television to play another of those embroiled in an epic fight between forces of good and evil. The "As Good As It Gets" Oscar nominee and former "Talk Soup" and "Later" host recalls "The Stand" was the first of many King works he's read, making "an indelible impression ... dark, Gothic and unexpected. And it's just a great adventure.

"I've thought often about why it's stood the test of time," Kinnear reflects, "and why its legion of fans is as strong as it is. I think there's just a tone to that book that is very hard to capture. It knows what it is, and it's got some very clear through lines and interesting assessments of good vs. evil. I never thought I would end up in a filmed version of it, but it's a great thrill."

Partially directed by Josh Boone – with whom Kinnear made the 2012 movie "Stuck in Love" – "The Stand" also features James Marsden, Amber Heard, Odessa Young, Henry Zaga, Owen Teague ("Bloodline"), Heather Graham, Hamish Linklater ("Legion"), Katherine McNamara ("Shadowhunters"), Daniel Sunjata, Natalie Martinez, ("Kingdom") and Clifton Collins Jr.

"I worked with just about everybody," Kinnear notes, who describes his "The Stand" character Glen Bateman as a "weed-smoking, banjo-philosophy-spouting guy. In that character, I think Stephen captured someone who's searching, but who also has this great skepticism. He's at peace with the end of the world, and that makes him kind of a romantic character. And fun to play."

Filming of "The Stand" was winding down in Vancouver as the coronavirus pandemic was ramping up. "It wasn't until I was already home that the NBA started shutting down and all the big moves started to happen," Kinnear says, "but even prior to that, I was reading a few little excerpts about this strange thing in China. It wasn't getting much attention, but it was out there.

"I mean, what are the odds?" Kinnear concludes. "Over many years of working, I've made nothing about a pandemic except when there was a pandemic."

“Mr. Mayor” (NBC — series premiere, Jan. 7, 2021)

When retired Los Angeles businessman Neil Bremer (Ted Danson) decides to run for mayor of his beloved city, he surprises everyone and wins the seat. With great ideas and commitment to the community, he optimistically sets out to get to work shaking up City Hall. However, he quickly discovers navigating politics is not business as usual. Luckily, he can rely on the know-how of his political-veteran deputy Arpi (Holly Hunter) and the dedication of his offbeat staff to keep him on the right path.

“TENET”

Writer-director Christopher Nolan’s ambitious fantasy-adventure faced huge challenges in its theatrical release, which was pushed back several times because of worldwide theater closings necessitated by the coronavirus pandemic. (It still hasn’t played theatrically in New York or Los Angeles, so home video will give many viewers their first exposure to it.) Now seen as a movie rather than a signal of economic and health conditions, it plays with time as a man (played by “BlacKkKlansman’s” John David Washington, Denzel’s son) makes his way through an espionage mission that ultimately could determine the fate of the entire world. Robert Pattinson, Elizabeth Debicki, Martin Donovan, Fiona Dourif, Clemence Poesy, Michael Caine and Kenneth Branagh also are in the cast ... but as is traditional with Nolan films, the effects teams (led here by Andrew Jackson and Scott Fisher) are true stars of the picture, too. The cinematography by Hoyte van Hoytema (“Spectre”) is quite notable as well. ★★★ (PG-13: AS, P, V) (Also on Blu-ray, 4K Ultra HD and On Demand)

“MASTERPIECE: ROADKILL”

After his long and successful series run as the title doctor in “House,” Hugh Laurie returned to broadcast television recently in this BBC-produced drama televised in America by PBS. Written by the esteemed David Hare (“Plenty”), the four-part tale finds the ethically sketchy politician played by Laurie barely keeping the approval of England’s prime minister (Helen McCrory, “Peaky Blinders”) after he wins a libel suit. He also must deal with his wife’s (Saskia Reeves) and daughters’ (Millie Brady and “Elementary’s” Ophelia Lovibond) discovery of his affair with a librarian (Sidse Babett Knudsen, “Borgen”). Since characters who have a lot to juggle are Laurie’s specialty, he’s in his wheelhouse here, and his admirers will be thoroughly satisfied. ★★★ (Not rated: AS, P)

“NHL 2020 STANLEY CUP CHAMPIONS”

This year’s hockey championship was like no other, with the Tampa Bay Lightning and the Dallas Stars playing the games against the backdrop of the coronavirus pandemic — meaning no crowd to cheer for (or perhaps boo) the players, and no traveling back and forth between arenas during the best-of-seven series. Still, tradition is upheld by this annual release that recaps the event, postponed until later in the year than usual because of the health crisis. While the focus is meant to stay on the athletes here, it’s hard to ignore the extraordinary conditions under which they had to perform in their quest for the trophy. ★★★ (Not rated: V)

“KENNY ROGERS DOUBLE FEATURE”

Though the “Gambler” movies were superstar singer Rogers’ main calling card as an actor on television, he also did some traditionally high-rated projects outside that franchise, two of which are paired in this home-video release. Inspired by another Rogers music hit, “Coward of the County” casts him as the mentor to a young World War II veteran (Fredric Lehne) whose return home prompts a love triangle that makes the ex-soldier consider acting against his pacifist ways. Then, “Wild Horses” presents Rogers as a former rodeo star who runs up against a corrupt official over the treatment of animals; Pam Dawber, Ben Johnson and Richard Farnsworth also are in that picture’s cast. ★★★ (Not rated: AS, P, V)

“DIARY OF A MAD HOUSEWIFE”

Bel Kaufman’s novel was turned into a then-daring 1970 movie by director Frank Perry and his screenwriter wife Eleanor Perry. Carrie Snodgrass earned a Golden Globe Award and an Oscar nomination as the housewife of the title, who chafes under the treatment shown her by her ambitious lawyer husband (Richard Benjamin). Also maligned by her daughters (Lorraine Cullen, Frannie Michel), she secretly takes up with a writer (Frank Langella) who also acts harshly toward her ... sending her into group therapy. If you think you see Peter Boyle as a member of that group, you’re right, since this was an early screen credit for him. The score includes a song by Neil Young, who was romantically involved with the late Snodgrass for a time. ★★★ (R: AS, N, P) (Also on Blu-ray)

RUNNING BACK CLASH?

Running back James Robinson (right) has been one of the few bright spots for the Jaguars this season.

The Titans' defense will try to slow down the impressive back, while the Jaguars' defense will likely have its hands full with Yulee native and Titans RB Derrick Henry. The AFC South matchup between the Jaguars and Titans kicks off at 1 p.m. Sunday on WJAX.

Allen's star rises in third season in Buffalo

Probably one of the more heartening stories of the 2020 season is the rise of the Buffalo Bills as a legitimate AFC force and with it, Josh Allen's blossoming into an elite NFL quarterback.

Indeed, in his third year in the league, the 24-year-old native of Central California has broken out as a legitimate star, ranking in the top-10 in a slew of statistical passing categories (through 10 games), among them yards (2,871, first), completion percentage (68.4, eighth), touchdowns (21, sixth) and passer rating (103.2, eighth). He's also rushed for 279 yards (third among starting QBs) and five TDs (tied for third).

Furthermore, his play calling and decision making have been exceptional and he's given the Bills a chance to win in all but two games. At this writing, he's the chief reason why the Bills are atop the AFC East and headed for their first divisional title since the 20th century.

But away from the numbers, Allen has proven himself to be a clutch performer. That was apparent in the Bills' Week 10 loss to the Arizona Cardinals, when he led a 12-play, 78-yard drive that culminated in an Allen-to-Stefon Diggs TD strike with 39 seconds remaining that gave the Bills a temporary 30-26 lead. That the Cards' Kyler Murray managed to wipe that out with his own 43-yard Hail Mary touchdown with two seconds left was deflating for the Bills and their fans. But they had to be thrilled with their young quarterback's ability to rise to the occasion.

Allen and the Bills face perhaps their toughest test yet in 2020 when they play host to the AFC North-leading Pittsburgh Steelers in a game airing Sunday, Dec. 13, on NBC.

Howard Rosenthal proud to carry on the Mr. Food tradition

Howard Rosenthal of the Mr. Food Test Kitchen has a long and loving relationship with the culinary arts.

Indeed, the Syracuse, N.Y.-area native, whose syndicated cooking segments appear on local news programs across the country, has been cooking since the age of 6, has a degree as a professional chef and has owned and operated a restaurant, a high-end catering service and an event management company.

Now as the chief operating officer and on-air identity of the Mr. Food brand, he loves what he does and endeavors to spread that passion to others.

“You know, I love food, I love making people smile and appreciate food,” he says. “And I think if you understand the foundation of what makes a great recipe, it’s easier to build upon that. So we try to simplify everything that we do. I mean, we’re known for quick and easy recipes with off-the-shelf ingredients and that’s something that hasn’t wavered from the beginning. I feel very fortunate that I had a very long career with Art.”

Art is Art Ginsburg, who originated the Mr. Food segments in the late 1970s. A butcher, caterer and amateur thespian in the Albany, N.Y., area, Ginsburg parlayed an easygoing manner and an “anybody can do it” philosophy into a full-blown cottage industry, with his cooking vignettes appearing on more than 100 local TV stations.

Rosenthal met Ginsburg through Ginsburg’s daughter, who was a college classmate. During that time, he also worked weekends as a caterer and eventually landed with the Mr. Food family. After college, he opened his own restaurant and catering business, which he sold in the mid-1990s to become a partner with Mr. Food.

Rosenthal and Ginsburg became fast friends and traveled the world together to health expos, fairs and other public appearances. When Ginsburg died of pancreatic cancer in 2012, Rosenthal stepped right in – with no prior television experience.

But he made clear from the outset that he wasn’t Mr. Food but rather “Howard from the Mr. Food Test Kitchen.” And he wasn’t about to attempt Ginsburg’s signature mantra.

“The first time I had to get the ‘Oooh, it’s so good’ out,” Rosenthal recalls, “Art had a way of doing it, it was very sensual in the way that only Art could do it. And when I first did it, I felt kind of creepy doing it, like I might get arrested.”

As for what he’s proudest of with Mr. Food, Rosenthal says it’s simply continuing his good friend’s work.

“I know Art’s looking down smiling and that makes me very happy,” he says. “I mean, in today’s world between COVID and politics and all the other stuff that’s going on in the world, people are cooking more at home than they have in years, probably since our grandmothers, because they are at home more, they’re experimenting more, they’re not going to restaurants. So I love to see when people are amazed at how easy cooking can be and how rewarding and really bringing people around the table.”
