'Supernatural's' Jared Padalecki fights evildoers of a different stripe in The CW reboot 'Walker'

After 15 years as monster hunter Sam Winchester on "Supernatural," Jared Padalecki jumps right back into the series fray as star and executive producer of a series reboot upcoming on The CW.

In "Walker," an updated version of the 1993-2001 CBS actioner "Walker, Texas Ranger" that premieres Thursday, Jan. 21, the native Texan stars as title character Cordell Walker, a widower and father of two with his own moral code who returns home to Austin after two years of undercover work.

There, he encounters challenges of a different stripe: reconnecting with his creative son (Kale Culley, "Me, Myself and I") and rebellious daughter (Violet Brinson, "Sharp Objects"); negotiating clashes with his prosecutor brother (Keegan Allen, "Pretty Little Liars"), his perceptive mother (Molly Hagan, "Herman's Head") and traditional rancher father (Mitch Pileggi, "The X-Files"); and learning to work with his new partner (Lindsey Morgan, "The 100"), one of the first women in Texas Rangers history.

While this may have the same title character, occupation and setting, that is where the similarities with the original series end. This is a 21st century Walker, not a prequel or a story about a descendant. And with law enforcement problems dominating the news in recent months, Padalecki wanted to tell a positive story about police and "a law enforcement official who kind of toes the line and who is often stuck between what he is bound to do and what he believes is right like so many of our men and women in blue do find themselves in."

"I've lived in Austin for 10 years with my wife and we have three kids now, and I love Austin," he continues. "I'm a proud Texan and there's a lot of good in Texas and I think people in Texas get an interesting rap, (it can be) bad sometimes. But Texas is also a character in this series, so (are) the places and the people and the towns and the vibe, and so I had an opportunity to tell a story about a place I love while living in the place I actually live."

Padalecki had a brief break between the two series. He wrapped filming of "Supernatural" in Vancouver in mid-September and started work on "Walker" in late October, giving him about six weeks to say goodbye to Sam Winchester and get into the headspace of Walker.

"I drove down from Vancouver in my truck that I've had the last eight years and I had my dog with me and did a little road trip to kind of exhale after finishing up that show," he reports. "And then I had another five weeks after that road trip to sit down and really focus in on Walker ..."

"I think I still probably am letting go of Sam Winchester," he adds. "I imagine I will be letting go of Sam Winchester for a long, long time."

In Focus

"Black Lightning" (The CW — season premiere, Feb. 8)

The superhero series returns for its fourth and final season, delivering more adventures for high-school counselor Jefferson Pierce (Cress Williams) and his alter ego Black Lightning. Former series regular Damon Gupton won't be returning, having wrapped his role as Billy Henderson in Season 3. China Anne McClain returns to her role as Jefferson's daughter Jennifer on a more limited basis this season, while conversely, former recurring player Chantal Thuy is now as series regular as Grace Choi. Nafessa Williams, Christine Adams, Jordan Calloway and James Remar also return.

In Focus

"Hip Hop Uncovered" (FX — series premiere, Feb. 12)

This new six-part docuseries, airing two episodes each week, examines a vanishing breed of corporate power broker, who operates primarily from the shadowy periphery of the hip hop world. Set against a backdrop of 40 years in the history of this music genre, the limited series takes a deep dive into how America has criminalized aspects of hip hop even as a huge audience is fascinated with the street culture that created this music style, and still exists within it.

"The Flash" (The CW — season premiere, Feb. 23)

The hit superhero series opens Season 7, which finds Barry Allen (Grant Gustin) trying to stop the cunning Eva McCulloch (Efrat Dor) and discovering a way to find his missing wife, Iris West-Allen (Candice Patton). Season 6 recurring players Brandon McKnight and Kayla Compton, who play scientist Chester P. Runk and metahuman Allegra Garcia respectively, are promoted to series regulars, joining returnees Danielle Panabaker, Carlos Valdes, Tom Cavanagh, Jesse L. Martin and Danielle Nicolet in their familiar roles.

"ROLLING THUNDER REVUE: A BOB DYLAN STORY BY MARTIN SCORSESE"

Presented by Netflix in its original 2019 run, this Scorsese-directed documentary — which also factors in fantasy sequences inspired by the music — captures portions of early performances in the mid-1970s concert tour that Dylan staged along with a number of other celebrated performers. Joan Baez, Joni Mitchell, Roger McGuinn and guitarist Mick Ronson were among others participating. Those first dates largely were played throughout New England, with several stops in Eastern Canada, and "Blowin' in the Wind" (done as a duet by Dylan and Baez, who had been closely associated for nearly 15 years by that point) and "This Land Is Your Land" were standard parts of the song set. It's worth noting that Scorsese filmed this footage not long before making what is regarded as one of the seminal concert documentaries, "The Last Waltz." ★★★ (Not rated: AS, P) (Also on Blu-ray)

"DREAMLAND"

Reminiscent of such films as "Days of Heaven" and "Badlands" (both of which, incidentally, were made by director Terrence Malick), this atmospheric drama casts Margot Robbie as a Depression-era bank robber on the run. She's discovered by a young man (Finn Cole, "Peaky Blinders") who tends to her wounds and becomes inspired to help her escape ... fueling his own aspiration to escape the small Texas town where he lives. The part provides Robbie, also a producer of the film, with a nice change of pace from the flashier roles she's had in recent years; Travis Fimmel, Kerry Condon and Lola Kirke also appear. ★★★ (R: AS, N, P, V) (Also on Blu-ray and On Demand)

"THE KID DETECTIVE"

As the saying goes, he's not a kid anymore — but the title sleuth, played by Adam Brody ("The O.C.") — continues the investigating ways he was celebrated for in childhood into adulthood, where he finds out just how rough the game can be in writer-director Evan Morgan's dark comedy. He's been hitting the bottle a bit too hard post-adolescence, but he has to straighten up in order to solve the murder of his latest client's (Sophie Nelisse) boyfriend. Brody also is an executive producer of the tale that features Tzi Ma, Wendy Crewson and Sarah Sutherland. ★★★ (R: AS, N, P, V) (Also on Blu-ray and On Demand)

"ALWAYS AND FOREVER"

Since its theatrical exhibition was curtailed last fall by the coronavirus pandemic, this melodrama largely is making its debut via home video. Cynthia Addai-Robinson plays a prosecutor who reunites with childhood friends when a tragedy strikes them all — and as others in the group encounter danger that turns lethal in some cases, they realize someone has drawn them back together for a deadly purpose. The lawyer then directs her analytical mind toward figuring out who is targeting them. Robbie Jones, Loretta Devine, Wood Harris and Lauren London also are featured. ★★★ (PG-13: AS, P, V) (Also on Blu-ray)

"SCOOBY-DOO AND GUESS WHO?: THE COMPLETE FIRST SEASON"

An earlier incarnation of the cartoon had animated versions of celebrities as "guest stars" to help solve mysteries, and that premise has been revived for this version. The Scooby Gang gets assistance from the likes of actor-comedian Ricky Gervais (come on, you always knew he'd work with Scooby-Doo!), "science guy" Bill Nye and "Star Wars" icon Mark Hamill, but also on board for various capers are some legendary fictional characters ... including Batman, The Flash and Wonder Woman, whose services were relatively easy to acquire since production company Warner Bros. also owns DC Comics, (Plus, um, they're cartoons.) Frank Welker and Matthew Lillard are among those continuing their voice work for the "Scooby-Doo" franchise here. ★★★ (Not rated)

Curry the key to Warriors' renaissance in 2020-21

The Golden State Warriors were the worst team in the NBA last season, one that for them was mercifully truncated by the pandemic shutdown.

Now, with a few tweaks to their roster they're back and hoping to return to the winning side of the ledger in 2020-21. But as always, key to that effort will be their stalwart point guard Stephen Curry.

At 32, the six-time All-Star is returning from a broken hand suffered in the season's fourth game, an injury that didn't allow him to play again until the week before the shutdown. By that time the Warriors, then the defending Western Conference champions, were well on their way to a 15-50 record, one due in large part to the prolonged absences of Curry and All-Star shooting guard Klay Thompson as well as the departure of All-Star forward Kevin Durant.

This season, hope is on the horizon for the Dubs. The draft has netted them former Memphis center James Wiseman with the second overall pick, while trades have brought useful pieces in forwards Kelly Oubre Jr. and Andrew Wiggins, who gets his first full season in blue and gold after being acquired at the end of 2019-20.

Of course, Curry will be the one directing them and keeping everyone on the same page, much as he did during Golden State's championship years. His career credentials (two-time NBA MVP; three-time NBA champion; 23.5 points and 6.6 assists per game) speak for themselves.

Curry and the Warriors can be seen in action Monday, Jan. 18, when they drop in on the defending NBA champion Los Angeles Lakers in the late contest of a TNT doubleheader.

On basic cable and off the beaten path: Under-the-radar foodie shows you can watch right now

As we all know, the web and streaming services such as Netflix, Amazon and YouTube are fonts of foodie knowledge. And of course, Food Network and Cooking Channel are there for competition series and personality-driven content.

But that's far from where culinary television ends. There are shows all across basic cable, first run and in rebroadcasts, that can provide information on all manner of cuisines from all corners of the globe, some of which you may know about, others maybe not. So check out these offerings – because there has never been a better time than now to be a foodie with a cable subscription.

“New Soul Kitchen” (Saturdays, Cleo TV): Chef Jernard Wells is your host for this cooking series that finds him welcoming in a different chef each week to introduce viewers to their chosen cuisine, ranging from vegan and soul to Ghanaian and Latin. So expect to see such dishes as a Cuban chicken stew, Creole red beans and rice, vegan crab cakes and seafood okra soup on the menu.

“The Pizza Show” (Sundays, Viceland): As the title suggests, the classic dish made from dough, tomato sauce and mozzarella cheese is what's for dinner here, as Brooklyn pizzeria owner Frank Pinello takes viewers around the world to see how different regions interpret it. From the deep dish pizzas of Chicago and the thin-crust pies in New York to more exotic creations in Naples, Florence and even Seoul, viewers will learn that there's more than one way to toss the dough.

“Food Factory” (All week, FYI Network): This documentary series goes behind the scenes of production lines across the country to find out how some of the most popular food items are made, revealing the ingredients, techniques and required processes that combine to make the foods we eat every day.

“Just Eats With Chef JJ” (Saturdays, Cleo TV): Now in its third season, this atmospheric food and talk series finds New York chef JJ Johnson welcoming artists, influencers and other personalities into his kitchen for conversation, laughs and food knowledge. The goal, Johnson says, is to make the viewer feel like they're with him through the whole process and they can do this at home.

“It's Suppertime!” (Thursdays, Viceland): Home cooking is part and parcel of this how-to series as chef and restaurateur Matty Matheson walks viewers through the ABC's of classic dishes such as spaghetti and meatballs, Caesar salad with homemade dressing and a cheesy garlic bread. Because who doesn't love home cooking?

“BBQ Pitmasters” (Saturdays, Destination America): The world of competitive barbecue is the focus of this series that follows a revolving group of “pitmasters” as they grill at the top festivals across the country, from the Great American BBQ in Kansas City, Mo., to the Jack Daniel's World Championship Invitational in Lynchburg, Tenn.
