Atlantic Coast Appliance specializes in the sale of new appliances and repair of old ones

Atlantic Coast Appliance was established in the 1960s and has history rooted in the area.

Bill and Anna Gray have found themselves a part of that history ever since taking over ownership of the company in 2016.

The idea for them to take ownership of the business came after they saw an open market with room for expansion and decided to take up the opportunity.

Atlantic Coast Appliance is located at 31 Seminole Road in Atlantic Beach. The company proudly serves Jacksonville, the Beaches, Ponte Vedra, northern St. Johns County, Orange Park and Fleming Island.

From the outset, the mission has always been growing the business and it is at the forefront of all decisions made.

Ten employees make up the staff at Atlantic Coast Appliance, and strive to provide excellent in-home appliance repair and sales of new appliances and mattresses.

It is these employees that have helped the business create a fast-paced and growing atmosphere and a personal service that everyone involved with the company prides themselves in.

The Grays hope that each customer that walks through their doors and into the store feels that they were treated with respect.

A major part of that respect is making customers feel that they were not taken advantage of while their appliance was repaired or during the purchase of a new appliance.

This includes having fair pricing on all of its products.

Appliances are such an important part of people's lives as they help do simple to complex chores around the house and it has been the case for some time.

Refrigerators, freezers, ovens and stovetop ranges, washers and dryers and dishwashers are the appliances they specialize in and have a wide range of Treating every customer with the respect they deserve is the approach the Atlantic Coast Appliance staff prides itself in.

brands and models available for customers to choose from, including being an authorized Speed Queen washer and dryer dealer and an authorized Frigidaire dealer.

On the repair side of things, Atlantic Coast Appliance has factory-trained and certified technicians on staff to handle any issues that may arise with an appliance.

A full 90-day warranty on parts and labor is also provided, as well as a $20 discount on repairs for military and seniors and a 100% satisfaction guarantee on all work done.

Atlantic Coast Appliance hopes that the approach it takes creates satisfied customers that become regulars anytime they have appliance questions or are looking to upgrade or purchase a new one.

To help ensure this, they are also members of the United Appliance Servicers Association and have an A+ rating from the Better Business Bureau.

For more information about the business and the appliances they sell, go to the Atlantic Coast Appliance Facebook page, email eastcoastjax15@gmail.com or call 904-249-4426.

“Movie: Cocaine Cowboys”

If you have a weak stomach, be warned: The gore count in this 2006 documentary is high. It's the story of how drug trafficking in the 1970s and '80s transformed Miami, thanks to Columbia's Medellin cartel. Director Billy Corben uses the firsthand accounts of three men involved in the trade, as well as lots of bloody crime scene photos and the re-enactment of one particularly grisly 1979 shootout.

“Movie: A Long Way Down”

Toni Collette and Pierce Brosnan head the cast of this 2014 British comedy about four strangers who meet on New Year's Eve and form a sort of surrogate family to help one another get through the difficult times in their lives. Directed by Pascal Chaumeil (“A Perfect Plan”), the film's talented cast also boasts Imogen Poots, Aaron Paul, Rosamund Pike and Sam Neill.

“Wu-Tang: An American Saga”

The third and final season of this drama series finds the members of the Wu Tang Clan following their own separate musical paths as money, fame, ego and business threaten to tear the group apart for good. Ashton Sanders, Shameik Moore, Siddiq Saunderson, Julian Elijah Martinez and Marcus Callender head the returning cast. (ORIGINAL)

“Movie: Rogue Agent”

From Great Britain comes this 2022 thriller that's based on a true story of Robert Freegard (James Norton, “Happy Valley”), a career con artist who masqueraded as an MI5 agent and fooled people into going into hiding, only to be brought down by the woman who fell for him. Gemma Arterton, Sarah Goldberg, Marisa Abela and Freya Mavor also star. (ORIGINAL)

“Perfect Match”

Single stars from Netflix series such as “Love Is Blind,” “The Ultimatum” and “Too Hot To Handle” come together in a tropical paradise to find love, play matchmaker for others or even break up other couples in this unscripted series. Nick Lachey (“The Sing-Off”) is the host. (ORIGINAL)

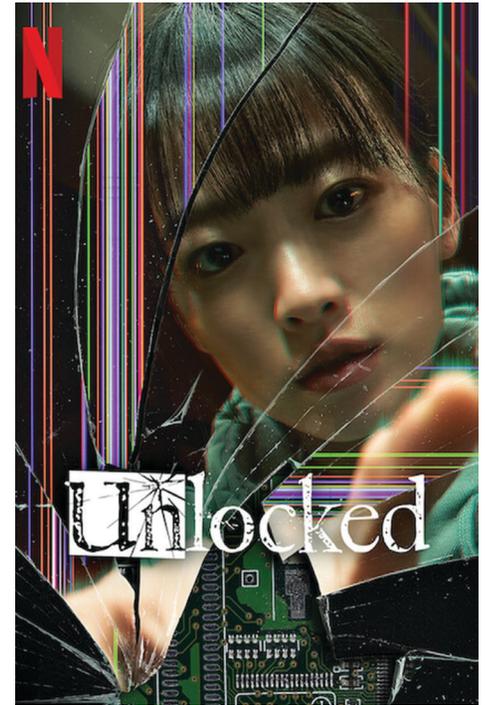

“Full Swing”

This eight episode documentary series follows a diverse group of professional golfers on and off the course as they endure the high-stakes pressure of competing on the sport’s highest level, the PGA Tour, during the 2022 season. Among those appearing are Brooks Koepka, Rory McIlroy, Jordan Spieth and Justin Thomas. (ORIGINAL)

“The Upshaws”

This comedy series from creators Wanda Sykes and Regina Hicks returns with 16 episodes for its third season, which continue the adventures of a working-class African American family in Indiana struggling to make it work and make it right without the blueprints to do it. Sykes, Mike Epps, Kim Fields and Jermelle Simon are among cast returnees. (ORIGINAL)

“Movie: Unlocked”

A young woman’s life is turned upside down when she loses her smartphone, then gets it back with spyware installed that tracks her location, hobbies, tastes, work life, finances and social network in this crime thriller from South Korea. Chun Woo-hee, Im Si-wan, Kim Hee-won and Kim Tae-joon head the cast. (ORIGINAL)

Fox's 'Next Level Chef' gets prime post-Super Bowl slot

Most viewers may know "Next Level Chef" for its three-tiered kitchen set or its high-stakes competition. But chef Nyeshia Arrington thinks what really sets the Fox series apart is its emphasis on mentorship.

"It's truly so freakin' rewarding," she says. "I mean, to be able to put these chefs out on a platform to be seen, to be heard, to be celebrated is freakin' incredible. You know, I get to be this sort of blip in their lifetime. I'm just truly at an intersection in their life and they're going to go on and they're going to do great things. But it's so rewarding to me to be able to share the passion, share the knowledge, to celebrate the craft of cooking and carry on that legacy."

The series returns for its second season Sunday, Feb. 12, in prime network real estate, the coveted timeslot following Fox's coverage of Super Bowl LVII. Back, of course, are host Gordon Ramsay, Richard Blais and Arrington to mentor teams of home cooks, social media chefs and pros through a competition where they must prove how well they can perform in the best and worst conditions, as represented by the set's three levels of kitchens. The winning chef gets a $250,000 prize and a year's mentorship from all three mentors.

For Arrington, having the best equipment and ingredients on the top level is what every chef wants, but she says that also comes with its drawbacks.

"I would say it's mildly overwhelming," she says, "the amount of equipment that's in there because some of these things, you really have to spend time to know how to use them to your advantage. And so I think even just that sort of few moments of trying to – for lack of a better way to say this – download a lot of information very quickly under a huge time restraint, but then also think about a creative dish and execute that under pressure, it's very challenging."

Conversely, Arrington says, the bottom level with its basic equipment and ingredients is where she's seen the greatest creativity.

"I think it's human nature, when you're under pressure you work a little bit faster, a little bit quicker, a little bit smarter," she says, "because you actually just don't have the time not to. If you're in the top kitchen and you get a filet mignon and truffles and caviar and all this stuff, it's like OK, you might think you get the best dish. But really, the most creativity is when you have (a cheap) piece of meat, you have to kind of put love into that. And so that's really where I see a lot of these chefs really giving it their all."

"And a lot of these professional chefs, they're used to working in these fancy kitchens and it's cool to actually see them out of their element and go back to basics with these basic kitchens. It's really entertaining."

“Movie: Somebody I Used to Know”

A career setback sends workaholic TV producer Ally (Alison Brie, “GLOW”) back to the comfort of her hometown, where she reunites with first love Sean (Jay Ellis, “Insecure”) and is reminded of the person she used to be by his fiancée Cassidy (Kiersey Clemons, “Antebellum”) in this film comedy from director/co-writer Dave Franco (“The Afterparty”) and co-writer Brie. (ORIGINAL)

“Movie: Cloudy With a Chance of Meatballs”

The long-popular children’s book by Ron and Judi Barrett gets a fanciful retelling in this animated 2009 feature. An inventor’s device goes haywire, causing food to fall from the sky like precipitation ... amounting to pancakes and cheeseburgers instead of raindrops and snowflakes. A town’s mayor sees a way to cash in, though the phenomenon could destroy the area before there’s any chance for profit.

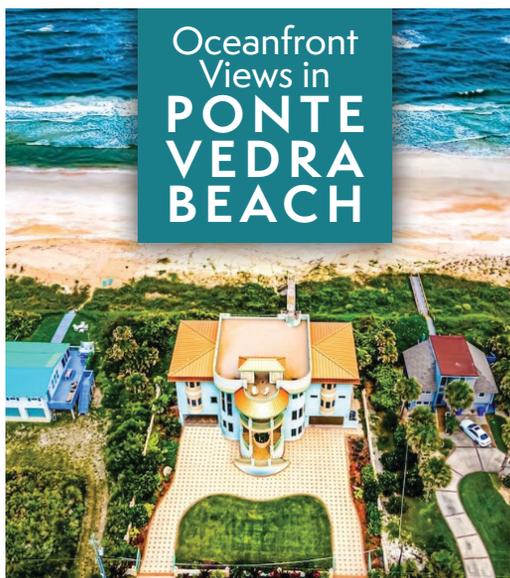

“Movie: How to Train Your Dragon”

In this adaptation of the same-named Cressida Cowell book, Jay Baruchel (“She’s Out of My League”) voices a young Viking-in-training named Hiccup who wants to impress his demanding father (voice of Gerard Butler) by mastering the title task. His mentor has the enjoyable vocals of comic and late-night television host Craig Ferguson. America Ferrera (“Ugly Betty”) and “Superbad” alumni Jonah Hill and Christopher Mintz-Plasse also are heard.

“Carnival Row”

Season 2 of this fantasy series picks up with Philo (Orlando Bloom) investigating a series of gruesome murders that stoke social tension, Vignette (Cara Delevingne) and the Black Raven plotting vengeance for the unjust oppression imposed by The Burgue’s human leaders and Tourmaline (Karla Crome) inheriting supernatural powers that threaten her fate and the future of The Row. What's Available NOW On

“Mars: Season 1” (Available now)

Astrophysicist Neil deGrasse Tyson, SpaceX CEO Elon Musk and former Apollo 13 astronaut Jim Lovell were consultants on this six-part miniseries following the first manned mission to the Red Planet in 2033. Half drama, half documentary, “Mars” defies pigeonholing, alternating the scripted story — which stars Ben Cotton (“The 100”), Alberto Ammann (“Narcos”) and musician Jihae in her acting debut — with segments showing current or in-the-works technology.

“The Chorus: Success, Here I Go” (Available now)

From Brazil comes this musical drama series in which young adults seeking to rekindle their abandoned dreams of stardom audition for a renowned theater company in Sao Paulo — and cope with the fear of failure, betrayal and ghosts from the past that come with it.

“42 to 1” (Available now)

This “30 for 30” documentary from directors Ben Houser (“E:60”) and former ESPN anchor Jeremy Schaap recalls one of the greatest upsets in sports history — when James “Buster” Douglas handed Mike Tyson his first loss by knockout in a heavyweight title fight in Tokyo on Feb. 11, 1990.

“Liz & Dick” (Available now)

Lindsay Lohan and Grant Bowler star as Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton in this 2012 telepic, penned by “Temple Grandin” scribe Christopher Monger, which chronicles the duo’s illicit international affair and the impact it had on Hollywood and media coverage of celebrity. Theresa Russell, Charles Shaughnessy and Tanya Franks also star.
