Rooftop Preserve offers 5-star experience in more ways than one

Marie Mantanona-Milton has been in property management for a few years now and one of her ventures was opening Rooftop Preserve, as a vacation rental in Ponte Vedra Beach in late summer of 2021.

Soon after, she found herself receiving several inquiries from guests who wished to have a private wedding ceremony or company retreat at the property.

Those inquiries led her to deciding to open it for small and private events in January 2022, which then led to her developing partnerships with local businesses specializing in hospitality that would cater for different types of events such as weddings, birthdays, corporate events and retreats.

“We have grown in this area and are grateful that we have partnerships with other locally-owned businesses such as event planners, designers, caterers and within areas of entertainment,” Mantanona-Milton said.

When coming up with the idea behind Rooftop Preserve, located at 2467 S. Ponte Vedra Blvd., Mantanona-Milton recalled her past experiences when preparing for parties and what the search was like to find the perfect venue.

“The concept for Rooftop Preserve was ignited through my personal needs as a host for family celebrations, gatherings and company parties,” Mantanona-Milton said. “Often times, I would research local areas near the beach to spend a weekend staycation at, or to have an event at. Usually, I would find the properties required a five- to seven-day stay or did not allow for events.”

According to Mantanona-Milton, sometimes all you wanted was an oceanfront property for two to three days and not an entire week, but it was difficult to find those that also allowed events.

When putting on an event there are many details that go into it and finding vendors that proved to be a “good fit” were hard to come by at times.

“I thought Rooftop Preserve would be a great option for locals and those far away to have this place that could provide just that,” Mantanona-Milton said. “My mission was to provide a beautiful oceanfront experience for locals who would have access to vetted and highly recommended partners in hospitality.”

She understands how important high recommendations can be during the process of choosing which venue to use, which is why she values her customers’ satisfaction in everything that she and the venue does.

“I also enjoy the aspects in hospitality that provide comfort and joy,” Mantanona-Milton said. “It comes easy for me. Many people feel anxious and overwhelmed when planning an event or weekend for others. I wanted Rooftop Preserve to provide this type of support for hosts and guests who need it.”

At the end of the day, Mantanona-Milton believes that it is the staff at the Rooftop Preserve that helps create a unique experience for all those who enter its doors and use the space.

Those interested in finding more information or to inquire about possible stays can call 904-595-2567 or email vacationhost@rooftoppreserve.com.

The venue can also be found on Instagram @rooftoppreserve, on the Rooftop Preserve Facebook page

“Dawson’s Creek”

This 1998-2003 WB Network teen drama about a close-knit group of friends in a seaside Massachusetts town featured then-up-and-coming talent including James Van Der Beek, Katie Holmes, Michelle Williams (“The Fabelmans”), Joshua Jackson (“The Affair”) and John Wesley Shipp (“The Flash”).

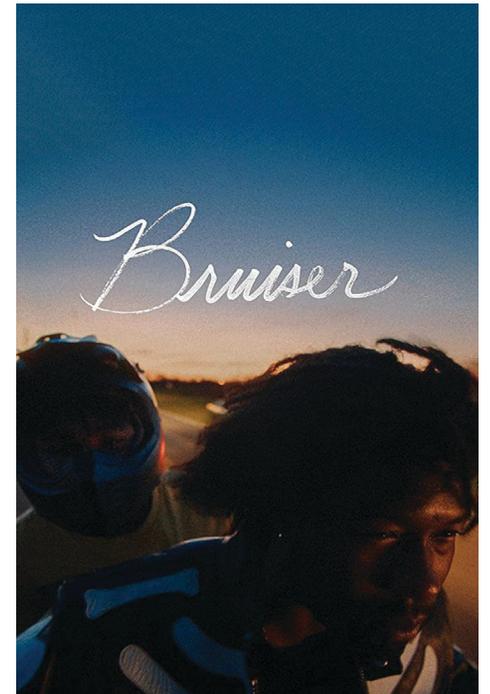

“Movie: I’m Totally Fine”

From director Brandon Dermer (“Flatbush Misdemeanors”) comes this film comedy about Vanessa (Jillian Bell, “Workaholics”), a woman who takes a solo vacation to clear her head following the death of a friend, only to encounter an out-of-this-world situation. Blake Anderson, Natalie Morales and Karen Maruyama also star. (ORIGINAL)

“Movie: Something’s Gotta Give”

In an Oscar-nominated performance, Diane Keaton had her best role in years — and a nude scene — by reteaming with writer-director Nancy Meyers (“Baby Boom”) on this delightful 2003 romantic comedy. The playwright mother (Keaton) of a womanizer’s (Jack Nicholson) latest conquest (Amanda Peet) becomes his new love target. When he has a medical crisis, the much younger doctor (Keanu Reeves) also falls for her.

“Movie: Bruiser”

A 14-year-old boy turns to a charismatic loner for help after being beaten up in debuting director Miles Warren’s drama movie about fathers, families and the effects of toxic masculinity. Trevante Rhodes (“Mike”), Jalyyn Hall (“Till”) and Shamier Anderson (“Invasion”) star in this first narrative film from Disney’s Onyx Collective. (ORIGINAL)

There is something for everyone on foodie TV this week

Fans of culinary TV will find a veritable cornucopia of the exotic, the unusual and the familiar in programs on cable, broadcast and streaming this week.

In the unusual category is "The Food That Built America." Returning for its fourth season Sunday, Feb. 19, on History, the 16 hourlong episodes will highlight a new batch of bold brands and brilliant visionaries that revolutionized food and changed the culinary landscape forever.

That's certainly the case in the season opener titled "Breakfast That Pops," as giants Kellogg and Post duke it out for dominance in the first meal of the day with such ready-made products as corn flakes, Pop-Tarts, Special K and Grape Nuts. Adam Rich returns as host.

If a visit to an exotic land is what you desire as the long winter gets longer, then "Secrets of Spain" may scratch the itch. Premiering Monday, Feb. 20, on Cooking Channel, the hourlong special takes viewers along on an insider's tour of the Andalusia region of Southern Spain to explore its rich gastronomic history. Natives Gioconda and George Scott are the hosts for this trek in which they visit places off the beaten path where visitors can find the best food.

It's also a very scenic area that encompasses the cities of Malaga, Cadiz, Seville, Granada, Marbella and Gibraltar. So if the food doesn't entice you, the natural beauty certainly will.

While we're on the subject of travel, Cooking Channel's "Food Paradise" is back on the road in the Wednesday, Feb. 22, episode titled "Nosh the Night Away," which highlights some primo late-night eats in Texas, where fried chicken is king; Las Vegas, home of a giant pizza covered with bacon and savory sauce; and Atlanta, where sweet chicken sausage doused with spicy cheese is the meal of choice.

Over on the ad-supported streaming service Tubi, there are restaurants being saved on "Kitchen Commando." Executive produced by Gordon Ramsay, the 10 episode series follows former U.S. Army Master Sergeant and White House chef Andre Rush as he calls on his discipline and resourcefulness to save struggling restaurants in the Washington, D.C., area and reignite their owners' passion for the food service industry.

On Food Network, there is no shortage of competition series with the season premieres of "Tournament of Champions" and "Alex vs. America: Chefs' Cut" (Sunday), and new episodes of "Kids Baking Championship: Biz Kids" (Monday), "Chopped" and "Superchef Grudge Match" (Tuesday, Feb. 21).

There are also new episodes of weekend daytime entries "Girl Meets Farm" and "Mary Makes It Easy" on Sunday, and "The Pioneer Woman," "The Kitchen" and "Guy's Ranch Kitchen" on Saturday, Feb. 25.

And over on Fox, don't forget about "Next Level Chef" on Thursday, Feb. 23.
