Kiowa Gordon in "Dark Winds"

'Winds' of change: New season of 'Dark Winds' blows onto AMC

When AMC aired "Dark Winds" Season 1 finale mid-July last year, the show proved, if nothing else, that all it takes is six great episodes to create a strong and supportive fan base. Now, a little more than one year after said finale, New Mexico cops Joe Leaphorn (Zahn McClarnon, "Reservation Dogs") and Jim Chee (Kiowa Gordon, "The Red Road") are back for Round 2, calling all fans back to their TV sets and computer screens once again. Season 2 of "Dark Winds" premieres Sunday, July 30, on AMC and the AMC+ streaming service.

Set in the American Southwest during the 1970s, the spiritually infused crime thriller follows two Navajo officers of the law, Leaphorn and Chee, as they take on a smattering of cases in their desert community. Constantly plagued by an open double murder in the first season, the officers take on several other, smaller cases while chipping away at the big unsolved crime, all while grappling with their own personal and cultural demons.

The series opened to positive reviews when it premiered in June 2022 and continued to pick up acclaim over its six weeks on air. Among the most notable accolades, "Dark Winds" was nominated for the Best Action/Thriller Television Series Saturn Award, and leading man Gordon was nominated for a Gotham Award for his performance as undercover FBI agent Chee. Additionally, the Graham Roland ("Tom Clancy's Jack Ryan") -created series earned a Western Heritage Award for the pilot, titled "Monster."

The AMC production has also been lauded for its richness of Indigenous culture, well-rounded character development and overall beautiful storytelling — the latter of which comes as no surprise to those familiar with the other works of executive producers George R.R. Martin ("Game of Thrones") and Robert Redford ("Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid," 1969). Backed up by a massive team of talented writers, producers, directors and more, Martin and Redford have a major part in bringing the Navajo Mysteries novels of Tony Hillerman to life.

Much of the magic, however, falls in the hands of the series' cast. Returning for Season 2 alongside Gordon and McClarnon are Jessica Matten ("Frontier") as gifted tribal police Sgt. Bernadette Manuelito; Deanna Allison ("Accused") as Leaphorn's wife, Emma; and Rainn Wilson ("The Office") in his unusually sinister role as twisted missionary and used car salesman "Devoted Dan" DeMarco. There has also been word that Sally Growing Thunder (Elva Guerra, "Reservation Dogs"), Frank Nakai (Eugene Brave Rock, "That Dirty Black Bag") and Hoski (Jeremiah Bitsui, "Better Call Saul") are likely to return this season.

As for the remainder of the second-season plot, the "Dark Winds" trailer features a very human threat in the form of a "blond man" walking onto the reservation and committing a string of murders. Though with many of Season 1's questions still lingering without concrete answers, it's worth noting that many of this season's horrors link back to the freshman season in one way or another.

Leaphorn, still dealing with a personal loss from last season, has a lot to face before he can move forward with his grief. Now more determined than ever that he can't face his demons alone, Leaphorn once again teams up with Chee and Manuelito to bring peace to their Nation — hopefully once and for all. But it certainly won't be easy.

Hopes have been (and continue to be) high for "Dark Winds" — and not just from a Hollywood success standpoint. In an interview ahead of the series premiere, McClarnon acknowledged his own hopes for the series.

"What I hope to see from 'Dark Winds' is just more doors opening, not only for Indigenous talent in front of the camera but also behind the camera," McClarnon said. "I think we're kind of in a unique time right now with Native representation in media [a]nd I'm glad to be a part of it."

"Dark Winds" Season 2 premieres Sunday, July 28, on AMC and AMC+.

“Movie: Assassin”

When revolutionary, experimental human drone tech falls into enemy hands, it's up to the leader of an elite C.I.A. group (Bruce Willis) and his team to draft a black-ops soldier into service to retrieve the weapons system at any cost. Dominic Purcell and Nomzamo Mbatha co-star.

“Movie: Rio 2”

Blue macaws Blu (Jesse Eisenberg), Jewel (Anne Hathaway) and their three children are comfortably settled in the city, but perhaps too comfortably — Jewel fears that the children are becoming more like humans than birds. After learning that she and Blu may not be the last blue macaws after all, Jewel decides that their little family should visit the Amazon jungle. It's there that Blu meets his formidable father-in-law (Andy Garcia) and goes beak-to-beak with archnemesis Nigel (Jemaine Clement).

“Breeders: Season 4”

The fourth and final season of this FX comedy series catches up with the Worsley family, five years after the dramatic end of Season 3. Season 4 brings the biggest parenting challenge that Paul (Martin Freeman) and Ally (Daisy Haggard) have ever faced, as 18-year-old Luke (Oscar Kennedy) drops a bombshell at Christmas dinner that will change everyone's lives forever. No longer in Luke's shadow, 16-year-old Ava (Zoe Athena) experiences her own bombshell moment as she meets and immediately falls for the charismatic Holly (Jessie Williams). Alun Armstrong and Joanna Bacon also star.

“Reservation Dogs: Season 3”

This half-hour comedy follows the exploits of Elora Danan (Devery Jacobs), Bear Smallhill (D'Pharaoh Woon-A-Tai), Willie Jack (Paulina Alexis) and Cheese (Lane Factor), four Indigenous teenagers from rural Oklahoma. In the third and final season, the Rez Dogs find themselves stranded in California and have to find their way back home. The series is co-created by Sterlin Harjo and Taika Waititi.

“Poisoned: The Dirty Truth About Your Food” debuts on Netflix

Secrets from the grocery aisles will be revealed when “Poisoned: The Dirty Truth About Your Food” makes its streaming debut, Wednesday, Aug. 2, on Netflix.

The film, helmed by director Stephanie Soechtig (“The Devil We Know,” 2018), dives into the detailed findings of the 2011 book “Poisoned: The True Story of the Deadly E. Coli Outbreak That Changed the Way Americans Eat,” by author Jeff Benedict, looking at the safety protocols surrounding American food. Soechtig — who is no stranger to the documentary format — goes deeper into the food industry than ever before, having previously worked on features such as “Tapped” (2009), which examines the water bottle industry, and “GMO OMG” (2013), answering questions about genetically modified organisms.

This feature, according to a description from the Tribeca Film Festival, “provides tips on what to avoid at the supermarket, demystifies the tangle of regulations that govern what we eat, and tells the stories of families who have lost loved ones to foodborne illness. This is a film that will make you think about what’s on your plate and how it got there in eye-opening new ways.”

They continue to explain that “foodborne pathogens kill around 3,000 people in the U.S. every year and hospitalize hundreds of thousands more. Romaine lettuce, cantaloupe, sprouts ... all have been at the center of outbreaks [that] have become alarmingly frequent in recent years. Their solutions are simple, but protections are scattershot, with little bureaucratic will to enforce them.” They go on to promise that “Poisoned” will “[hold] the public and private influences behind these decisions to account, beginning with the Jack In the Box E. Coli outbreak of 1992-1993 and continuing to the present day.”

Of the film, author Jeff Benedict said: “Turning this story into a film has been a writer’s dream. Grateful to Bill and Julie Marler for trusting me with their odyssey (I didn’t expect to find a love story when I set out to write about a foodborne illness outbreak),” he teases, then adding: “Lucky to have worked with Ross Dinerstein and his great filmmaking team at Campfire Studios.”

From executive producers Rebecca Evans (“The Way Down”), Ross Girard (“A Glitch in the Matrix,” 2021) and Benedict himself, “Poisoned: The Dirty Truth About Your Food” premieres Wednesday, Aug. 2, on Netflix.

BEST SIGOURNEY WEAVER MOVIES

“Alien” (1979): Director Ridley Scott’s deep-space chiller introduced Weaver — who now stars in the Prime Video series “The Lost Flowers of Alice Hart,” debuting Friday, Aug. 4 — to audiences as she played one of several astronauts aboard a vessel that unwittingly picked up an unwelcome, and quite lethal, guest during a rescue mission on a remote planet.

“Eyewitness” (1981): Weaver smartly proved early on that she could do more than horror, playing a television reporter probing a murder that a janitor (William Hurt) claims to have seen.

“The Year of Living Dangerously” (1982): Weaver and Mel Gibson are extremely sexy together in a tale of romance amid political unrest. Co-star Linda earned an Oscar in a gender-crossing supporting role.

“Ghostbusters” (1984): Who ya gonna call? In the case of Weaver (as a literally haunted woman), Bill Murray and company, of course, but demonic possession lets her camp and vamp it up for a while.

“Aliens” (1986): The original “Alien” is iconic in its own way, but the first sequel gave Weaver even more to do as astronaut Ellen Ripley fought a queen alien to ensure a child’s safety.

“Gorillas in the Mist” (1988): Weaver proves an ideal choice to embody famed scientist Dian Fossey, who paid greatly for her dedication.

“Working Girl” (1988): A droll Weaver

is perfect in this comedy, directed by Mile Nichols, as a sneaky boss who wants to take credit for an employee’s (Melanie Griffith) business idea while trying to keep her claim on the acquisitions veteran (Harrison Ford) they both love.

“Dave” (1993): Playing “straight man” to Kevin Kline, also one of her co-stars in “The Ice Storm” later, Weaver is fine as the first lady who doesn’t realize an imposter has replaced her president husband.

“Death and the Maiden” (1994): Weaver does a lot of the heavy lifting in director Roman Polanski’s intense drama, in which she plays an activist convinced that she has a previous and very unsavory connection to a neighbor (Ben Kingsley).

Q: I thought “The Big D” wasn’t going to be on television. What happened? – Jill Hanley, via e-mail uled debut, it was pulled as part of several programming decisions made by that network’s then-just-merged parent company Warner Bros. Discovery.

However, there still was a full season of the show in existence, hosted by JoJo Fletcher and Jordan Rodgers ... the “Bachelorette” alums whose pandemic-postponed wedding finally took place just before “The Big D” originally was intended to debut. USA Network expressed interest in picking up the show as a Wednesday-night companion to “Temptation Island” and made the deal, and that’s why it’s there now.

Q: I enjoyed seeing “Fiddler on the Roof” on Turner Classic Movies on Father’s Day. Didn’t I see that its star, Topol, passed away recently? – Richard Bell, Tacoma, Wash.

A: Sadly, he did. Chaim Topol died in March in his native Tel Aviv, where he also was celebrated as a founder of Variety Israel and Jordan River Village, organizations benefiting children who either have special needs or deal with critical illnesses. While “Fiddler’s” Tevye was Topol’s most internationally recognized role, both on stage and screen (earning him Tony and Oscar nominations), the actor did much other work including the sci-fi fantasy “Flash Gordon” and the James Bond adventure “For Your Eyes Only.”

A playwright, screenwriter and producer as well, Topol was in demand as a voice talent as well ... dubbing the voices of characters in foreign versions of films that originally were made in the English language. Disney’s animated “The Jungle Book” and the first two “Harry Potter” movies are among examples of such jobs that he did. After Topol’s death, it was revealed that he had been involved in Mossad espionage missions, with his fame serving as a distraction for those who didn’t notice others’ spying activities.
