Talented Mr. 'reboot': Netflix gets gritty with 'Ripley' remake

Hollywood loves a charming sociopath, and for good reason. Divisive, morally ambiguous characters have a way of getting under the skin of the audience members and characters alike, staying within the fabric of each individual like a stubborn stain. As viewers try to sort out the motive behind the maniac, morals are called into question, boundaries are pushed and — for better or for worse — the most questionable events of the film often play on repeat in our heads.

Tom Ripley, who gives his surname to Netflix's newest series, was first created in 1955 by thriller novelist Patricia Highsmith. While posthumously seen as somewhat of a divisive figure herself, Highsmith created Ripley to guide her would-be bestselling novel, "The Talented Mr. Ripley." The novel spawned four sequels (published between 1970 and 1991) and grew to further acclaim in 1999, when it was adapted into the five-time Oscar-nominated feature film of the same name. Now, 69 years after Ripley's birth, Netflix makes its mark on the classic tale.

The eight-episode thriller series, "Ripley," premieres Thursday, April 4, on Netflix.

As those who have seen or read "The Talented Mr. Ripley" already know, the story, based in the 1960s, revolves around an enterprising but suspicious young man named Tom Ripley (Andrew Scott, "Fleabag"), who is hired by a wealthy American industrialist to find his son, Dickie Greenleaf (Johnny Flynn, "Emma," 2020), and return him home to assume his duties in the family business. Little does the elder Mr. Greenleaf know, Ripley has little to no intention of bringing Dickie back stateside.

As Netflix puts it: "Tom's acceptance of the job is the first step into a complex life of deceit, fraud and murder."

The highly stylized, black-and-white production marks leading man Scott's first appearance since the sold-out West End stage production of "Vanya," a modern take on Anton Chekov's classic "Uncle Vanya." Scott, who rose to fame as "the hot priest" in Phoebe Waller-Bridge's series "Fleabag," can also be seen in the 2015 James Bond film "Spectre," 2014's biographical dramedy "Pride" and eight episodes of the Benedict Cumberbatch-led series "Sherlock," to name a few.

Flynn, meanwhile, plays Dickie, a spoiled young man who prefers to spend his time and money lounging at Italy's beaches and cafes over working for the industrial empire he is tapped to inherit. Some of Flynn's credits to date include roles as Rory Lomax in "The Dig" (2021), Dylan in the Netflix series "Lovesick" and Mr. Knightley in the 2020 film adaptation of Jane Austen's "Emma," while his most anticipated upcoming role is arguably that of late fellow actor Richard Burton ("Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf," 1966) in National Theatre Live's "The Motive and the Cue" (which, like Scott's "Vanya," is a London-based stage production).

Joining Scott and Flynn for "Ripley" is former child star Dakota Fanning, who has made a name for herself in adulthood thanks to roles in Quentin Tarantino's "Once Upon a Time ... In Hollywood" (2019), TNT's "The Alienist" and Showtime's "The First Lady." In "Ripley," Fanning portrays Marge Sherwood, Dickie's love interest who is quick to suspect Tom of shady operations.

Eliot Sumner ("The Gentlemen," 2019), Pasquale Esposito ("Hotel Portofino"), Maurizio Lombardi ("The Name of the Rose") and Margherita Buy ("Mia Madre," 2015) also star alongside Kenneth Lonergan ("White Noise," 2022) and Ann Cusack ("Grosse Pointe Blank," 1997).

“What Jennifer Did” (April 10)

It was a violent crime that shook a quiet Canadian town: mysterious intruders break into the home of Vietnamese immigrants, terrorize the family, and leave a traumatized daughter as the only witness. Neighbors and friends describe the family as hospitable, generous, and hard-working — how could they be targets? This feature-length documentary from director Jenny Popplewell uses police interrogation footage and testimony from those involved to unravel a web of complexities that no one saw coming.

“Heartbreak High” - Season 2 (April 11)

All our heroes are back for Term Two at the “lowest ranking school in the district.” But fresh hotties, a new sports teacher and a mystery assailant, throw any hopes for a peaceful term into disarray, while the race for school captain is seeing dirty tactics run rife through Hartley High. This year is more chaotic than ever.

“Woody Woodpecker Goes to Camp” (April 12)

“The Sympathizer”

(Max — April 14, Miniseries Premiere)

Based on Viet Thanh Nguyen's Pulitzer Prize-winning novel of the same name, this series is an espionage thriller and cross-culture satire about the struggles of a half-French, half-Vietnamese communist spy during the final days of the Vietnam War and his new life as a refugee in Los Angeles, where he learns that his spying days aren't over. ## Friends of Fieri: Noah Cappe continues Guy Fieri's search for the best bites around

When Fieri calls, Cappe answers: joining Guy Fieri's ("Diners, Drive-ins and Dives") never-ending search for the greatest eats around, celebrity chef Noah Cappe ("Carnival Eats") takes the wheel of the all-new series, "Best Bite in Town," premiering Friday, April 12, on Food Network.

"For years, I've been rollin' out to towns big and small lookin' for joints serving up amazing dishes. But no matter how many miles I put on the Camaro, I just can't fit 'em all into 'DDD.' So I've called in my buddy Noah Cappe and the Bite Club to help me out, and they are hittin' the road to find some killer small-town dishes on their own," said Fieri, introducing his flame-lovin' fans to his latest (shared) endeavor.

Joined by Tiffani Faison ("Chopped"), Shota Nakajima ("Top Chef"), Joe Sasto ("Best Bite in Town"), Aarti Sequeira ("Aarti Party"), Jet Tila ("Cutthroat Kitchen") and other Food Network stars — who make up the newly dubbed "Bite Club" — Cappe will travel from location to location, checking out two of Fieri's restaurant picks at each and every stop.

"From indulging in Banh Mi in Tulsa, Oklahoma, to savoring an authentic sushi experience in Davis, California, and enjoying oysters in Placerville, California, [the Bite Club] is on the hunt for the most amazing local dish," the network explains. "Together, they explore the local food scene in cities across the country, visiting six of the most popular spots in each one. After scouring the town and tasting a wide variety of cuisines, Noah and the Bite Club nominate three exceptional dishes to present to a panel of esteemed culinary judges to determine the Best Bite In Town."

Newly appointed to the "Flavor-town city council," Cappe couldn't contain his excitement for the upcoming series, sharing: "This series is a whole new ride with every episode culminating in a flavor-packed showdown highlighting the epic eats that these communities are serving up.

"It's more than just finding the best bite in town," he says. "It's about celebrating the heart and flavor of each community,"

From Knuckle Sandwich and Citizen Pictures, "Best Bite in Town" premieres Friday, April 12, on Food Network.

Gene Kelly in "The Three Musketeers"

BEST GENE KELLY MOVIES

"The Three Musketeers" (1948): Kelly plays D'Artagnan, alongside much of the MGM contract-player roster at the time, in this musical take on the legendary adventure tale.

"The Pirate" (1948): A circus performer (Kelly) pretends to be the pirate a smitten woman (Judy Garland) wants to meet.

"Take Me Out to the Ball Game" (1949): Kelly and Frank Sinatra (directed here by Busby Berkeley) do spirited harmonizing as professional baseball players who also happen to be vaudeville performers.

"On the Town" (1949): Kelly (who also co-directed here, with Stanley Donen) and Sinatra are sailors again, this time on leave in New York (along with Jules Munshin), in this famously tuneful classic with a score by Leonard Bernstein, Betty Comden and Adolph Green.

"Brigadoon" (1954): Kelly and Van Johnson star in the famed musical as Americans visiting Scotland and finding a magical village there. The streaming series "Schmigadoon!" owes a lot to this.

"It's Always Fair Weather" (1955): A reunion of several soldiers, one played by Kelly (also co-directing with Stanley Donen once more), sparks this comedy-drama fueled by musical numbers.

"Invitation to the Dance" (1956): Kelly wrote, co-directed and co-starred in this unique experiment, telling several stories with no spoken dialogue ... only with dance.

"Inherit the Wind" (1960): A famous trial over the teaching of Darwin's theory of evolution inspired the stage play that director Stanley Kramer turned into this excellent film, with Kelly in a sterling cast that also includes Spencer Tracy and Fredric March as the opposing attorneys.

"Xanadu" (1980): In his final feature-film role, Kelly plays one of the people significantly inspired by a muse (Olivia Newton-John).

Q: What will Kara Killmer be doing, now that she has left “Chicago Fire”? – Janice Kennedy, via e-mail

A: As of this writing, no definite plans for (or by) her had been announced, though she made mention that she had an audition for a part just before her final episode of the NBC drama aired. For the 10 years she was on the show, “Chicago Fire” was pretty much her exclusive job, though she also starred in the 2017 Lifetime movie “My Husband's Secret Life” (also known as “Sleeper”). Killmer also appeared in the 2015 feature film “Beyond the Mask,” a historical action-adventure tale, and she later married the movie's male lead, Andrew Cheney. She has said that she is “wide open” to different kinds of projects now, and in any medium, be it television, theatrical movies or theater. However, she added that she's also open to bringing her Sylvie Brett back to “Chicago Fire” on a guest-star basis if the given situation lends itself to that.

What now for ‘Chicago Fire’ alum Kara Killmer?

Q: I've found the new version of “Shogun” interesting. When was the first version originally on? – Matt Cramer, Covington, Ga.

A: The first TV miniseries based on James Clavell's best seller aired on NBC over five consecutive nights in September 1980, with Richard Chamberlain starring as John Blackthorne, the English navigator taken prisoner when his trading ship landed in feudal Japan in the early 17th century. The saga won two Primetime Emmys, three Golden Globes and a Peabody Award.

Though Chamberlain was the unofficial “king of the miniseries” during that era, given his successes in that genre, Sean Connery reportedly was sought to play Blackthorne — as was one of his James Bond successors, Roger Moore. However, the notion of Connery agreeing to film a project on location in Japan was pretty much a pipe dream at that point, since he had been quite vocal about his displeasure with making the 1967 Bond movie “You Only Live Twice” there.
